SEASON'S EVENT.

Ocean View Party Given Last Friday Evening Was a Brilliant Function.

Pronounced By All The Greatest Affair Ever Witnessed Here.

EXCELLENT MUSIC. STUNNING GOWNS WORN.

At eight o'clock on Friday evening, the 14th, when the matrons receiving at the much heralded Ocean View ball were ushered to their seats of honor in the large dancing-room, the hush of expectancy which pervaded the crowded ante-rooms and parlors bespoke the beginning of a social function of more than ordinary formality.

Extraordinary endeavors had been made by the various committees and the result surpassed the fondest hopes. Entering the music room from the front entrance, one was confronted by beautiful hangings of the tri-color of our country, in many colors, draped from the center of the ceiling. Green boughs and flowers adorned the fire-place, while screens were placed tastefully about.

Within the great dancing room, a glare of beauty. The broad hard wood floor was set off by the shining oak sheathing at the end of the room. Draped from chandelier to chandelier were pretty green and pink francy crepe hangings, interspersed by the vivid coloring of flowers. On the walls, in and about the corners, and in exquisite taste, ferns and evergreen of various shapes had been arranged, and in the two far corners of the room small greenery tastefully set about soft divans laden with silk pillows formed an irresistible combination. The ensemble was beautiful. As the ushers in full evening dress escorted the splendidly gowned matrons to their seats the scene reminded one of the sparkling court functions of Louis Quatorze.

Soon followed the stately sequence of guests as they were ushered to be presented to the inspiring marches of Chandler's orchestra of Portland, under Leader Brooks. The reception being over the dancing began, and the polished floor was soon a whirl of motion and color. The music was delightful and an inspiration. Every seat was occupied at the close of each dance and many sought the cool breezes of the piazzas for an evening tete a tete. Although the moon rose late, yet its coming was foretold in the soft refulgence spreading over the bay and islands, and long before the dance ended, the orb of evening, still radiant in the waning, was shining upon this delightful scene.

Some sixteen dances, with the Virginia Reel and lancers as extras were enjoyed, and not until after midnight were the dancers satiated. Many comments were heard of the affair all of which gave unstinted praise to the management and to the co-operation of the guests of the hotel. Invited guests were present from many localities. The matrons, the special committees and the guests of the Ocean View deserve great commendation for the smoothness and style which characterized the affair and a perfectly fair estimate of the opinions given was that, at no time, in the recollection of those present, had a more noteworthy ball been given, and it is safe to add that nothing like it was ever seen in this vicinity.

The committee are anxious to thank, here, all who helped in anyway. Perhaps the most striking feature of the evening was the number of beautiful gowns seen.

The appended is a partial list of the ladies present: Matrons, Mrs. F. B. Manderville, Newark, N. J., charmingly gowned in white embroidered Irish poplin with pearls and diamonds.

Mrs. C. H. Pearson, New York, all-over lace over biscuit colored silk.

OCEAN VIEW HOTEL.

Briefs of Interest Concerning the Guests Here.

Misses Charlotte Gaw, Ada E. Baldwin and Marguerite L. Behring were at Peak Island for a short outing Thursday. Misses Gaw and Baldwin left Saturday for their homes in Newark and East Orange, N. J.

The launch party to Gurnet bridge Saturday, under the auspices of Mr. Albert H. Falk of New York, was a grand success and was attended with considerable merriment, owing principally to the fierce appetite of several of the gentlemen in the party, who sated fresh baked peach pies at a kitchen near Gurnet and seized them, under the very eyes of the cook, to be devoured on the lawn.

NEWSY ITEMS OF INTEREST CONCERNING THE GUESTS AT THIS HOUSE.

Dancing and Card Parties are the Attractions.

Mr. Pete Singer of the F. F. D. is soon to arrive at Hill Crest. Mr. L. G. Treadway has just gone and Mr. E. E. Prior goes soon. Mr. A. H. Rogers is soon to join his brother, N. C. Rogers, for a few days. The society has been well represented this year at Chebeague.

Mr. Roberts, the famous baritone, singer of Springfield, Mass., is stopping at Hill Crest where he is always willing to entertain his friends. Mrs. Mabel Perkins has recently arrived to join her sister, Mrs. Henry T. Perkins, of Springfield.

The house party from Philadelphia has mostly broken up each one going in a different direction. Miss Mott was a beautiful singer has entertained the guests quite frequently.

On last Saturday the Hill Crest team minus three of its best players gave the Chebeague another game of base ball. The Chebeague team was ven stronger than before and won the game by a score of 9 to 3. The game was won in the first two innings when seven runs were made after which the Hill Crest team settled down and played good ball. The star pitcher of the Hill Crest team, Bates, was not in good condition for the second game and after the second inning retired in favor of Albert Morton who pitched well. The batting was weak on both sides but the game was interesting throughout. Three hayrack loads of people attended the game from Hill Crest and Summit cottage. The batteries were Hill Crest, Bates and Gray, and Morton and Gray; Chebeague, Seabury and

Mr. Irving Reynolds and Mrs. Ethel Spear left Hill Crest last Sunday after a very pleasant stay accompanied by Mr. L. G. Treadway. The party was escorted to the steamer by a group of friends numbering about thirty people. Numerous jokes were played on the couple who are thought to be engaged. The best joke was turned on the joker though, in the person of "String" Prior who was seized on the boat by Mr. Reynolds and was forced to go to Portland just as he was leaving.

Mr. C. A. Rogers of Boston, Mass., has been spending his annual vacation at Hill Crest. This makes the 8th summer he and his family have spent at Chebeague.

A large two masted schooner from Harpswell took about forty people from Hill Crest on a sail around the harbor. Mr. Bates and Mr. Gray got restless shortly before reaching the dock and jumped over-board in all their clothes.

The house is crowded to its utmost capacity, having at the present time one hundred and ten boarders and in order to seat all at one time it has become necessary to set one large table in the main hall during each meal. It is very evident that proprietor Hamilton will have to again enlarge if he is desirous of handling his increasing patronage.

LIFE AND GAIETY

REIGNS SUPREME AMONG THE ELITE COTTAGERS AT BAILEY'S ISLAND.

Casino Hall, the Rendezvous of This Select Circle.

The center of the social life of Bailey Island is the Casino or Cottage Hall as it is called, run by the Cottage Hall association. An organization made up of the principal cot-tagers. Here take place nearly all the dances, concerts and other entertainments which occur on the island.
These entertainments have for a number of years past been notable for their high class, many of the concerts and recitals presenting artists and programs such as are heard by fashionable audiences in the halls of our great cities.

There has been rather an unusual amount of social activity of this description on Bailey's this season as is evidenced by the recent record at Cottage Hall. On Monday evening, the 10, there was a piano recital by Miss Bertha Schoff, musical principal of Baltimore. On Tuesday evening, the 11, there was given an informal rehearsal of a new and unpublished Christmas Cantata by the author, R. Huntington Woodman, the leading organist of Brooklyn, New York, perhaps equally celebrated as a musician as well as a Corinthian skipper. On Thursday evening, the 13, there was given what all voted to be the best dance of the season, and on Saturday evening, the 15, the week closed in glory with a grand vaudeville performance which packed the little place to the piazzas. The following program was given:

1. Living Pictures.
Aunt Mchitabel's Family Album.
Ancestress Miss Starr
Grandpa & Grandma.
Mr. and Miss Luckey
Mr. Twiss
Mrs. John DeHart
The Misses Drinker
Prof. Riborgue Mann
Miss Dorothy Colt
Mr. Franklin T. Root
Miss May Pearson
Miss Amy Pearson
Miss Tina Seward
2. Wax Works.
Singing Doll Mrs. DeHart
Dancing Doll Miss Josephine Kern
3. Charades.
Circus (in 3 scenes)
Hallucination (5 scenes)
Sarah Bernhardt, (5 scenes)
4. Stunts.
Italian & French Songs Miss Barbara
Cox
Snake Charmer Miss Winifred Root
Impersonations Prof. Riborgue Mann

There appears to be no need for dullness for anyone who is "in it" on Bailey's.

ROBINHOOD INN.

evening at a delightful little "Flower party," the prize, a beautiful rustic basket of fruit was awarded to Miss Thurston.

Mrs. Jex and Miss Shaffner gave a card party on Friday evening which was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Blakeslee took the first prize, Miss Roke, the second and Miss McNeil, the third.

There have been many enthusiastic fishing parties among the gentlemen and they have met with very good luck.

Other gayeties have been arranged for this week and the remainder of August promises to be a very pleasant part of the season.

There was the usual fish pond and in one attractive corner an artist who astonished everyone with her quick and clever cutting out of silhouettes.
